Environmental Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan

On July 1, 2021, the new "Environmental Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan" (hereinafter – the Code) entered into force, laying the foundation for the transition to technological regulation in environmental protection – regulation based on best available techniques (BAT), resource-saving technologies and practices, reduction of volumes and decrease in the hazard level of generated waste and their effective management, use of renewable energy sources, water conservation, as well as the implementation of measures to increase energy efficiency, sustainable use, restoration, and reproduction of natural resources.

The application of BAT is aimed at the comprehensive prevention of environmental pollution, minimization and control of negative anthropogenic impact on the environment, and increasing resource efficiency.

Environmental Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan

One of the objectives of the environmental legislation of the RK is the encouragement and stimulation by the state of attracting "green" investments and the widespread application of BAT.

In accordance with the Environmental Code, the implementation of BAT is not affected for existing facilities commissioned before July 1, 2021. At the same time, they are entitled to implement BAT on a voluntary basis.

During the reconstruction/modernization of existing facilities, as well as for newly commissioned category 1 enterprises (facilities having a significant negative impact on the environment), it is a mandatory requirement from January 1, 2025.

Information on the implementation of BAT and BAT reference documents can be studied on the website of the NJSC "International Center for Green Technologies and Investment Projects" (established by the Decree of the Government of the RK dated April 27, 2018). In order to stimulate the implementation and application of BAT, Article 577 of the Code of the RK "On Taxes and Other Mandatory Payments to the Budget" provides economic incentives for taxpayers that contribute to increasing the profit and competitiveness of the company and ensuring the stability of the cost of manufactured products.
